Coegin Pharma completes first delivery of Follicopeptide products to Hårkliniken

Coegin Pharma AB (“Coegin” or the “Company”) today announces that the Company has completed its first commercial delivery of hair growth products based on Follicopeptide® to Hårkliniken, a leading international provider of specialized hair and scalp treatments.

The delivery marks an important step in Coegin’s ongoing commercial roll-out and follows shortly after the Company’s first commercial delivery to Gents. With Hårkliniken, Coegin strengthens its presence within the professional segment, where products are introduced through hair experts and clinics with a strong focus on science, results, and long-term customer relationships.

The first delivery to Hårkliniken further validates Coegin’s ability to supply multiple commercial partners in parallel, and confirms that the Company’s production, logistics, and quality systems are fully aligned with professional market requirements.

“Delivering our first commercial batch to Hårkliniken is another key milestone for Coegin,” says Jens Eriksson, CEO of Coegin Pharma. “Hårkliniken is a highly respected player with deep expertise in hair biology and treatment. Their decision to introduce products based on Follicopeptide is a strong endorsement of our science and our ability to meet the expectations of the professional market.”

“Following the successful pre-launch with Gents, this delivery shows that our commercial strategy is gaining real traction across different channels. Step by step, we are building a solid foundation for scalable growth together with strong partners,” Eriksson adds.

Coegin continues to work actively with both existing and new partners across selected markets, with the ambition to establish Follicopeptide as a leading science-based solution within premium and professional hair growth.
