Coegin Pharma signs development agreement with a cosmetics company

Coegin Pharma has signed a Joint Development Agreement (JDA) with a cosmetics company already marketing several consumer brands. The purpose of the JDA is to jointly progress with the next phase of R&D activities for the unique skin pigmentation peptide NPP-4. This agreement lays the foundation for a potential commercialisation agreement in the future.

The JDA outlines that Coegin Pharma will provide the necessary NPP-4 testing materials for the upcoming phase of R&D activities, while the development partner will take care of the evaluation of NPP-4. This collaboration is a key step towards a potential licensing agreement for NPP-4, contingent upon positive results from the R&D activities and successful negotiations of commercial terms.

"We are very pleased having this JDA in place with a strong partner. This also allows us to maintain our focus on the commercialisation of our hair growth project, FOL005," says Jens Eriksson, CEO of Coegin Pharma.
