SDS receives orders from three existing customers worth SEK 6 million

SDS has received three new orders, with a total value of approximately SEK 6 million, from existing customers. Two of these customers are leading mobile operators in the Middle East and the third is the leading operator in Eswatini (formerly Swaziland). These customers have ordered various upgrades for their existing SDS platforms.

“The combination of delivering business-critical systems that specifically support sales, and our proven ability to deliver orders remotely is the backdrop to customers' continued willingness to invest. It is particularly pleasing to see orders for three different products, which is proof of the business value in our entire broader offering.” says Tommy Eriksson, CEO of SDS.

Ordered features from the various customers include an upgrade of the ERS 360 transaction platform, an upgrade to a mobile financial services platform, and a new platform for managing the life cycle of the voucher management system.

The orders include software and services with new functionality in existing platforms and are expected to contribute to revenue in the second and third quarters of this year. Furthermore, these new orders are evidence of confidence in SDS' operational capacity and its ability to quickly support the demanding business environment for its customers.
