

Press release

18 september 2026 08:30 CEST

Qbrick powers Børsen's new Investor Academy

Qbrick AB (publ) announces that Danish business media Børsen is launching Børsen Investor Academy, a new video-based learning service powered by Qbrick.

Børsen Investor Academy will offer digital education focused on investing and financial knowledge. Børsen is responsible for the video production and parts of the technical solution, while Qbrick provides the video and learning technology that powers the new service.

"We are very pleased to expand our collaboration with Børsen. Investor Academy is a strong example of how video can be used not only for communication, but also for digital learning and new services," says Krister Karjalainen, CEO of Qbrick.

The launch further strengthens the collaboration between Qbrick and Børsen and represents another commercial use case for Qbrick's growing offering within video-based learning.

Visit Børsen Investor Academy: <https://borsen.dk/ia>

For more information, contact:

Krister Karjalainen, CEO, Qbrick

E-mail: krister.karjalainen@qbrick.com

Phone: +46708-811229

About Qbrick

Qbrick AB (publ) is a Swedish SaaS and AI company specializing in video communication. The company provides a cloud-based platform that serves as a central infrastructure for video communication, enabling businesses and organizations to create, manage, and distribute live and on-demand video at scale in a secure manner and with high regulatory compliance, supported by AI and interactive capabilities. The platform is used for both internal and external communication workflows, such as financial communications, training, sales and presentation materials, and live events. Qbrick was founded in 1999 and operates wholly owned subsidiaries in Sweden, Norway, Denmark, and Finland. The company is headquartered in Stockholm, and its shares are listed on the

Press release

18 september 2026 08:30 CEST

NGM Growth Market.

For more information, visit www.qbrick.com