PRESS RELEASE

Wyld Networks joins The LoRa Alliance

Wyld Networks today announces its membership of The LoRa Alliance®, the global association of companies backing the open LoRaWAN® standard for the Internet of Things (IoT)

Wyld Networks, a virtual satellite network operator (VSNO), is at the forefront of sensor to satellite innovation utilising LoRaWAN®. Joining The LoRa Alliance® offers great visibility and awareness for Wyld as they continue to develop satellite IoT technology for deployment anywhere on the globe where a sensor or device needs connectivity.

Joining The LoRa Alliance®, with its 500+ membership, will allow Wyld to build its visibility and influence and contribute to the adoption and development of Satellite IoT throughout the world.

“The LoRa Alliance is a natural fit for Wyld,” Alastair Williamson, CEO, Wyld Networks said. “Our sensor to satellite solutions, will extend the reach of IoT in numerous vertical markets. We are pleased to champion a global standard for IoT connectivity and hope that our expertise will be a valuable addition to the LoRa Alliance.”
