

Meltron receives first order from a leading beverage company

Meltron has received a first time order from a leading wine & spirit company in the Nordic region for its explosive proof LED-lighting system. The order is in excess of 30 000 € and will be delivered this year.

Meltron's explosive proof product system is thoroughly certified and brings ultimate lighting safety for demanding industrial production environments. It saves about 60% energy compared to conventional technology and improves the productivity for the customer by providing a superior light uniformity. The customer in this case had made a small test installation before this commercial order.

- I am happy to see that again after a testing and evaluation period, our explosive proof product system is chosen by the customer, says Meltron's Sales Manager for Finland Jarmo Korpisalo.
- This is a totally new segment for us and gives us more diversity in our commercial activities in addition to pharmaceutical, chemical and oil&gas segments, says Ville Sistonen, CEO of Meltron.

Meltron expects additional orders from this specific customer and also from other companies in wine & spirit sector in near future, as majority of lighting solutions in this industry is still done by traditional fluorescent lighting products, which are not long term sustainable solutions. "The same situation is pretty much in every other industrial segment we are in, and this gives us many opportunities for the future." says Meltron's Sales Director Frederik Johansson.
