Urb-it's sustainable last mile delivery services available in Valencia

Urb-it, the rapidly growing sustainable logistics platform, announces that its sustainable last mile delivery services are now available in Valencia. The third largest city in Spain is also the third Spanish city where Urb-it will operate.

Ignacio Achirica, Spain Country Manager said:

“As the third largest city in Spain, Valencia was always the next domestic expansion for Urb-it. The expansion increases our coverage with roughly one million customers and strengthens our position and offering towards retail brands and logistics partners.”

In February 2021, the Valencia 2030 Climate Mission was approved, where the city aims to decarbonize, reducing CO2 emissions and becoming climate-neutral by 2030. In this quest, the city has been investing heavily to reduce car-traffic while simultaneously increase the accessibility for bikes.

Kevin Kviblad, CEO said:

“With the opening of Valencia, Urb-it continues to execute on its expansion strategy and its mission to offer sustainable last mile delivery services in the largest cities in Europe. Valencia is a frontrunner in European sustainability efforts, has a well-established bike lane network and high population density. It's an excellent market for Urb-it, who can help the city reduce air pollution, noise pollution and congestion”.
