Filtermist reports largest ever unit orders for a single project

Filtermist Limited, a leading UK manufacturer of oil mist collectors and part of the Absolent Air Care Group, has recently secured orders exceeding SEK 24 million in total from a prominent Asian manufacturing powerhouse. This represents the largest number of oil mist extraction units ever ordered for a single project in Filtermist's 55+ year history; the units ordered will be delivered during 2025.

Filtermist was selected by the customer thanks to its ability to supply large volumes of high-quality products that are easy to install, and the fact that Filtermist units do not have filter elements that need frequently replacing. Centrifugal impaction technology separates the oil mist from the air, and the mist particles coalesce back into a liquid which can be collected for reuse or safe disposal.

Like many multinational companies, air quality is high on the agenda for this customer. René Joppi, Filtermist's MD elaborates, "As with all responsible employers, our customer wanted to be sure that the air in its production facility is clean and safe to breathe. We are extremely proud that the customer chose Filtermist oil mist collectors to remove harmful oil mist particles from the air in this production facility."
