Coegin Pharma changes language for company communication to English

Coegin Pharma hereby announces that the company will change its language for communication to English only. This means that financial reports and press releases will henceforth be published exclusively in English.

Coegin Pharma operates in a global market and has an extensive network of international stakeholders. By transitioning to English as the language of communication, the company aims to create more consistent and effective communication, simplifying the dissemination of information to its stakeholders.

Historical press releases and financial reports in Swedish will remain available on the company's website.
