The Dalmatian Dog praised in Dagens Nyheter – “A gift with that little extra”

“The best gift wine has something to say.” That’s how wine expert Alf Tumble begins his latest column in Dagens Nyheter, where he lists nine wines made with extra care. Among them is The Dalmatian Dog from Testament Winery – a wine that continues to charm both wine lovers and critics alike.

Testament Winery is Croatia’s first Swedish winery. Since 2018, Zhoda has operated this winery in the coastal region of Dalmatia, with the ambition to create Croatia’s finest wine.

“We’re always thrilled when The Dalmatian Dog is recognized by wine experts around the world – this time by Alf Tumble in Dagens Nyheter. With its generous flavor and aroma from the local Dalmatian grape babić, combined with its distinctive design, the wine has since its launch five years ago become a favorite among Swedish wine lovers,” says Robert Karlsson, CEO of Zhoda Investments.

In his article, Alf Tumble describes the wine as “a stylish and tasteful wine for the dog lover” and highlights its origin:

*“This wine from northern Dalmatia is made from the local grape babić, grown on limestone hills that slope down toward the Adriatic Sea – the same region where the Dalmatian dog breed originates.”*
A wine made from handpicked local grapes and, according to Dagens Nyheter, a perfect gift “with that little extra.”
