Malin Lundberg has a Master of Science in Business and Economics and comes most recently from the role of Business Controller at Cell Impact, where she started in 2021. - I appreciate the trust put in me as CFO and I look forward to further develop Cell Impact and simultaneously enabling the transition to renewable energy, says Malin Lundberg.

In addition to the appointment of Malin Lundberg as CFO, the company has, after a review, decided to supplement the company's management team to obtain a broader representation of the company's functions and competencies. The management team will therefore be expanded and include the following people and roles:

- Marcus Nilsson, Sales & Program Manager
- Henrik Jackman, Chief Application Engineer
- Marie Nordqvist, Production Manager
- Alexander Beckman, Engineering Manager

The company's management already includes Daniel Vallin, CEO, Karina Sick Larsson, CHRO and Stefan Axellie, CFO (Malin Lundberg from February 12).

- With the new management team, we get a comprehensive and efficient synchronization of all business activities. There is great competence in the group, and everyone is motivated to realize the company's strategies, says Daniel Vallin.

- Together we will focus on how we can take the next step in building our customer relationships to secure future customer orders, adds Daniel Vallin.

- I am very satisfied with the management group that Daniel has put together. It is a strong group that has gained trust both internally among employees and externally with our customers. With this group we have a good foundation to further develop Cell Impact and continue to create a competitive company that really makes a difference in the green transition, says Robert Sobocki, Chairman of the Board.
